

King Saul wanted to know who had killed the mighty Goliath. King Saul told his servants to bring David to him. “King, I am David of Bethlehem, son of Jesse.” The son of King Saul, Jonathan, liked David and became friends with him. Jonathan knew that God was with David. David and Jonathan became best friends.

David went out and won many battles with God's help. Many people followed David. However, Saul became jealous of David and hated him.

“Everyone likes David more than they like me. I can never forgive David.”

One day David was playing the harp for the king. Suddenly King Saul threw a sharp spear at David! Whoosh! David escaped the spear. Jonathan told David, “My father is trying to kill you. Run away!”

Jonathan helped David whenever Saul tried to kill him. Eventually, David became the second king of Israel.

To be honest, Namwoo still wanted to buy games. Namwoo's friend, Jin, played games you see. One day, Jinsoo looked very sad.

"What's wrong? Did something happen?" asked Namwoo. "My mom said my eyes were getting worse and told me I can't play games so much anymore." "It's a pity, Jinsoo."

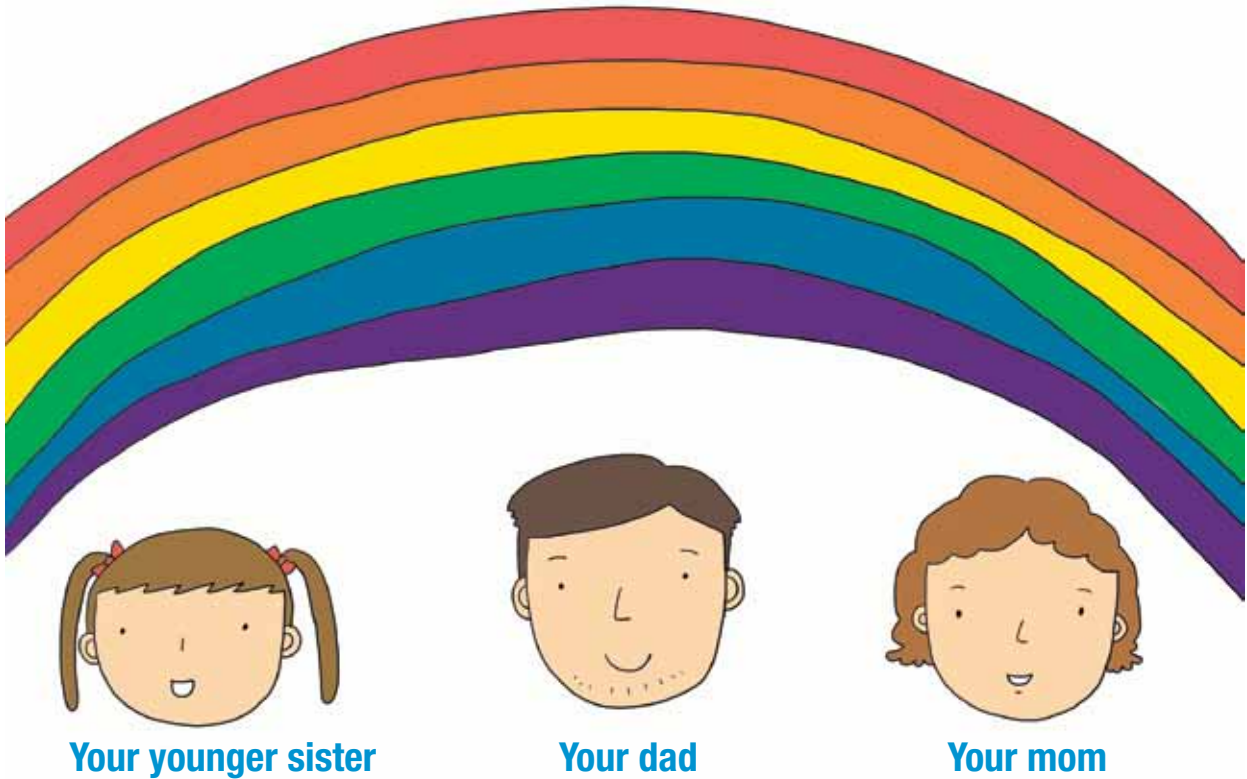

“That’s too bad, but I guess if your eyes are getting hurt……hey, let’s race! It’s been a while.” Namwoo and Jinsoo and their friends raced and raced and raced. Because Namwoo rode his bike every day, his legs became stronger. He was faster than his friends. Namwoo felt so good it was like he was flying.

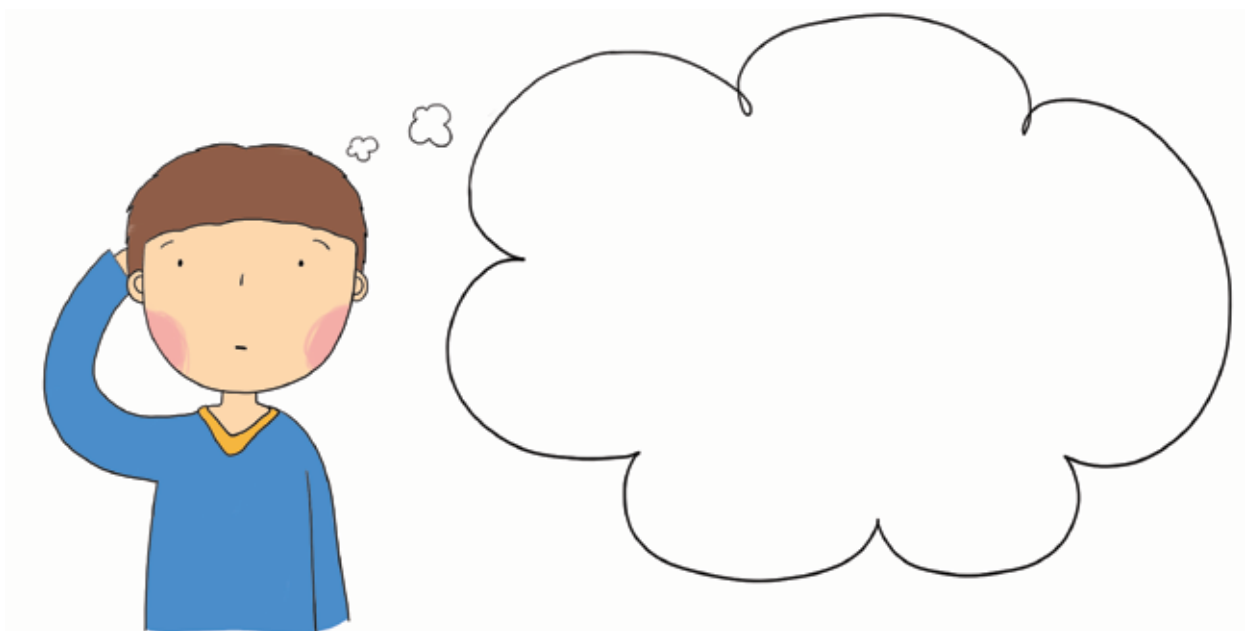

You have to keep your promises! Which promise is most important?

You have to keep both big and small promises. Have you ever forgotten small promises? If so, what were they?

Before you make a promise, think about if it's a promise you can keep.

Think about what the promises you can keep are and what the promises you can't keep are. Write them down below.

Promises I can keep!

Promises I can't keep!
